TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Re: Captain A. M. Hubbard, Ph.D.*

I am writing to say that Captain Hubbard has been known to me in connection with aviation physiology for several years and I have learned with great interest of his single handed attempts to assist pilots to meet the stresses to which they are subjected in their work. He has had many original ideas in this field and has become a keen student of human behavior under various stresses and under various pharmacological agents, including carbon dioxide and hallucinogenic drugs such as mescaline and lysergic acid in very small quantities.

Captain Hubbard is continuing his study of human physiology and applied psychology with very great benefit to otherwise irretrievable alcoholics. He has shown himself to be a dedicated and conscientious worker in this field and with his formal training at an American university should be a suitable candidate for licensure under the Psychologists Registration act of the state of Washington.

with the IFAS, $15,000.00 for the purchase of lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD). This purchase was made at HUBBARD's suggestion in view of the drying up of sources of supply for LSD. According to [redacted] this LSD is currently stored in Canada where the IFAS plans to do additional research. [redacted] noted the LSD is stored in Canada because of recent Federal and State of California legislation.

the most knowledgeable person he has ever met in the field of psychedelic drugs, particularly with regard to LSD.

Synopsis:

ALFRED MATTHEW HUBBARD testified as expert witness before California State Senate Fact Finding Committee on Use of LSD during March 1966. He was not an employee of Committee or State of California.

- RUC -

DETAILS:

DONALD L. GRUNSKY, State Senator, 17th Senate District, California, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Judiciary, advised on February 7, 1967, that there is no "California Senate Investigation Committee Into The Use of LSD" at the present time and no such committee existed during the 1966 Session of the California State Legislature. He stated that he headed a Fact Finding Committee on the Use of LSD in California during 1966 and this Committee held hearings in Sacramento during March 1966. ALFRED MATTHEW HUBBARD testified as an expert witness during those meetings, but was not an employee of the Committee nor an employee of the State of California. He appeared before the Committee on two or possibly three occasions. He was recommended to Senator GRUNSKY by [REDACTED] the International Foundation for Advanced Study, Menlo Park, California. b7C

1. It is not possible to inspect Capt. Hubbard's "project", since according to him this "project" has no physical existence at the present moment, but is something which he has pursued in the past, and which he would like to undertake again if he obtains the permission of the Atomic Energy Control Board to do so.

2. Capt. Hubbard states that the general intent of his "project" is to develop a method of direct conversion of the energy of radioactive disintegration into electrical energy. He did not describe the method by which he hopes to accomplish this beyond saying that he had in the past experimented with exposing various combinations of metals to radiation from radium, and believes that he was successful in producing electric currents. He would like to continue experiments of the same sort if permitted to do so.

3. Capt. Hubbard states that he has had practical experience in handling radium for many years, and with the health precautions required. He demonelectroscope which he had ordered from the United States, but delivery of which was blocked by the Atomic Energy Control Board. As a result he states that his impression is that the present enquiry by the Board into his activities concerns itself not so much with whether he shall be allowed to receive this insignificant amount of uranium, but rather with whether he shall be permitted to continue to carry on experiments in which he has been engaged off and on during the greater part of his life. As he is anxious that he should be permitted to continue his experiment, he has supplied me with some information as to his background, his present standing, and his plans. I am transmitting this information to you for whatever it may be worth, together with some of my personal observations and comments.

Capt. Hubbard's Personal History and Future Plans as Supplied by Himself.

He comes of a very poor Kentucky family. In his youth he became acquainted through his uncle, who was an metallurgist, with the then recently discovered facts about radioactivity which appealed strongly to his imagination. He got the idea that whoever was able to convert radioactive energy into electrical energy for industrial use would be in a position to obtain great financial returns. He therefore decided to get into a line of work which would bring him in contact with radium. He obtained a position with the Flannerys of the Vanadium Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, and of the Radium Chemical Co. in the United States, who were, according to him, the first people to bring radium into the United States for commercial and industrial use. In spite of a lack of formal education he worked up into a position in their research laboratory where he was able to learn the technique of handling radium, and had access to sizable quantities of radium for his experiments. He later left this job and, as he puts it, "went to sea" with the express purpose of making money to enable him to buy scientific equipment to develop his ideas.

He says that he was very successful in his marine career, obtained his captain's papers, and eventually became a ship-owner himself. Through his first-hand knowledge of small ships he became adviser to many wealthy people on the purchase, construction, overhauling and repairs of private yachts. This is at present one of his activities, which he says brings in a good revenue. In particular he says that during the past few years he has brought into Canada over 20 boats purchased from the U.S. Maritime Commission for resale to various Canadian individuals and corporations.

During his seagoing career he did not lose interest in scientific work, but spent money freely on scientific equipment. He acquired some radium, and in 1919 claimed to have succeeded in producing enough electrical energy to light up a 5 watt electrical lamp from a piece of equipment utilizing 25 milligrams of radium. He produced photostats of clippings from the Seattle newspapers of 1919 and the early 1920's in which he was interviewed in connection then, as he has now, that he is on the track of a development which, if successful, would bring him considerable financial returns. He agreed to let Dr. Smith inspect his equipment because he felt that Dr. Smith's religious calling was the best guarantee that his "secret" would be safe with him. Dr. Smith's report in the newspaper was quite favorable. He laid no claim to understanding the phenomenon which he witnessed, but supported Capt. Hubbard's claim that the electric lamp was really kept alight by means of the equipment constructed by Capt. Hubbard.

I may add that personally I am very sceptical of the claim that 5 watts of electrical energy could be obtained from 25 milligrams of radium. The rate of release of energy by radium in equilibrium with its products is known to be 110 calories /gm hour which, even if converted entirely into electrical power, would produce the equivalent of only .0032 watts for 25 milligrams of radium. Since the amount of power claimed is 1500 times this amount, one of three possibilities suggests itself:

- (a) Capt. Hubbard was deliberately fooling the investigator, and had a concealed source of power,
- (b) he was sincere, but was inadvertently fooling both himself and the investigator by accidentally introducing another source of power into a complicated experimental set-up without recognizing it as such, or
- (c) he had discovered an entirely new physical phenomenon to this date unknown to "orthodox" science.

Until convinced by carefully controlled experiments, I would be very reluctant to believe the third alternative. Capt. Hubbard, however, states that he has no ideas as to where the energy was coming from, as he has no theoretical training, but that he is convinced that it was there

Capt. Hubbard also dabbled in radio and in television. He claims to have sold to Seattle's radio station KOMO their first transmitter with the construction of which he was connected. Mrs. Hubbard relates that the living room of their house was always cluttered up by electrical equipment with which Capt. Hubbard was experimenting on radio and television, and she was afraid that their baby son (now aged 19) would someday electrocute himself on it.

During the early years of the recent war, before the United States became involved in it, Capt. Hubbard made good money by buying ships in the United States, and sailing them into Canadian ports to be "seized" by Canadian authorities who then compensated him for the seizure.

After the entry of the U.S. into the war he capitalized on his knowledge of ship construction and lumber by building a special lumber mill in North Vancouver to produce spar lumber. He claims that he holds the record for the largest single spar ever made in Canada. Very recently he sold this lumber mill. [redacted] confirmed his ac-

b7C

Another activity in which Capt. Hubbard is engaged is the marketing of radium and radioactive products. The Radium Chemical Co. described below, is registered in Canada, and as far as I can gather, is wholly controlled by Capt. Hubbard. He says that at the moment he is negotiating with the Eldorado Crown Co. to have him appointed as their agent for the sale of radium in Italy and in China where he claims to have excellent business contacts. His efforts in this connection are presumably on record in your office. Capt. Hubbard is also connected with, or controls, the Northwest Pacific X-Ray and Radium Co. of Seattle, Washington. One product which he says had at one time been distributed by that company is the polonium eliminator of static electricity troubles in the paper-making industry. These polonium eliminators, he says, [redacted]

[redacted] Another activity of that company is the renting out of radium for industrial radiography.

Capt. Hubbard claims that now that he has disposed of his lumber mill he is in a position to retire, and to devote the next several years to work on his old idea of developing electrical power directly from radioactive substances. He thinks this is particularly important now that large quantities of artificially radioactive substances are being produced as byproducts of the operation of atomic reactors or piles, and are being treated essentially as waste products which in addition presents serious disposal problems. He states that [redacted]

[redacted] no large-scale industrial possibilities in this idea, even if it were successful, basing his opinion on the known small radioactive energy content of fission products. I have the impression that any such "theoretical" arguments do not carry weight with Capt. Hubbard who believes that it may be possible to discover as yet unknown ways of releasing much greater quantities of energy from radioactive substances.

To carry out his plans Capt. Hubbard bought a 34 acre island (Dayton Island) off the east coast of Vancouver Island near Chemainus, B.C. He has already built there a home and a landing pier, and is planning to build a concrete laboratory building. He owns (through the Radium Chemical Co.) a 300 ton boat about 160 feet long powered by two 600 horsepower diesel engines. Aboard this boat is installed a 500 kilowatt diesel-operated electrical power plant which he plans to use to supply power to his island home and laboratory. The boat was purchased by him from the U.S. Maritime Commission. It used to be an experimental Navy boat, and is equipped with a gyro compass, asdic detection devices, radar and a 25 watt radio-telephone transmitter. Although, according to Mr. Hubbard, a boat of this size is normally operated by a crew of eight or ten, this particular boat is equipped with many automatic controls in the pilot-house with the result that it may be operated by Capt. Hubbard, his wife, who has had considerable experience as a helmsman on this and other boats, and his 19 year old son, who holds gates to the pier and drive in without having to stop and to explain our presence in his car.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Capt. Hubbard is an American citizen. His boat is registered in Seattle, and carries a Canadian cruising permit. He drives a Packard car with a Washington state license plant on it which presumably implies that he has some claim to being a resident of the state of Washington, or that the car is registered as the property of his Seattle company. He had a home in West Vancouver registered in his wife's name, which they recently sold. At present they live in a modest apartment with most of their things in storage.

Capt. Hubbard states that he is "no millionaire", but is comfortably enough fixed, that he likes life in this part of the world, that he had been looking forward like a small boy to achieving his lifelong ambition of playing about in his own laboratory with his pet ideas, and that he is very much concerned about the possibility that his plans might be upset by a ruling of the Board prohibiting him from carrying out his experiments.

The Radium Chemical Company

Nature of the Company. According to Capt. Hubbard this company was formed as an organization for the marketing of radium. He says that his negotiations with Eldorado are known to you. Capt. Hubbard says that he is the President, and his wife Mrs. R. Hubbard is the vice-president of the Company. He gave us no further details, but my impression is that the Company is entirely a family affair. Capt. Hubbard states that this Company is registered in Canada and has no connection with another organization of the same name in the United States.

Premises and Staff of the Company. The premises of the Radium Chemical Company Ltd. at 801 Harbour Road, North Vancouver, consist of a small 3 room wooden building and a storage shed adjacent to the lumber mill which Capt. Hubbard owned and operated. He sold the mill recently retaining control only of the small office building and the shed mentioned above. The office building contains Capt. Hubbard's private office, an outer typist's office, and a kitchen and washroom. I gather that the office is used to carry on the activities of the various companies which Capt. Hubbard either controls or represents. The only staff that I saw in the office were Mrs. R. Hubbard, and a girl typist.

Scientific Equipment Belonging to the Company. The Radium Chemical Co. being a marketing organization carries on no scientific activities in the course of its commercial operations. However, Capt. Hubbard states that for financial reasons the scientific equipment which he maintains for his personal use, and the boat described above, are carried on the books of the Company as Company property. Capt. Hubbard showed me a large table model Geiger-Muller Counter and scaling circuit manufactured by the Cyclotron stored elsewhere awaiting the construction of his island laboratory, and that he has an electron microscope on order from R.C.A. Capt. Hubbard stated that he was planning temporarily to set up his equipment in the shed pending the completion of his island laboratory, but that as soon as the Board began questioning his activities he immediately dismantled everything, and stored his radium and uranium samples in the bank pending the clarification of his position by the Board.

Capt. Hubbard's story and his manner of telling it certainly seem quite plausible. There is no doubt in my mind that he is a clever promoter, and a rugged individualist, who through his own efforts rose from very humble beginnings to a position of considerable wealth. It is beyond my competence to determine whether his past and present business deals and associations are beyond question or not. There is a good chance that his story outlined above is essentially correct, and that he is a wealthy man prepared to spend large sums of money in pursuit of a scientific hobby which he hopes may in the end bring very handsome returns. There is also, of course, the chance that this proposed laboratory may be a "front" for some other activity. It may have something to do with facilitating radium marketing operations of dubious character. Or it may have something to do with creating an atmosphere which might attract others to invest money in atomic-energy "get-rich-quick" schemes. In this connection Capt. Hubbard several times stressed that he has already spent many thousands of dollars in his scientific pursuits, of which every cent was his own, and that he intends to continue strictly on that basis.

From general remarks made by Capt. Hubbard I gather that his knowledge of the accepted scientific theories is very incomplete and confused, but that he has faith in the method of "trial and error". If his purpose in operating his laboratory is the one he states it to be,

Background information concerning Alfred Mathew Hubbard, most of which was related by Hubbard and is unconfirmed indicates that he was born in Kentucky of parents who were not well off financially. He became interested during the early years in endeavouring to convert radioactive energy into electrical energy for industrial use and in order to learn more about radium obtained employment (years not stated) with the Flannerys of the Vanadium Steel Co., Pittsburgh and with the Radium Chemical Company in the United States. He learned the technique of handling Radium while thus employed.

Hubbard "went to sea" to make money and claims to have had a successful marine career and further claims that during the past few years he has brought into Canada over twenty boats purchased from the United States Marine Commission for resale to various individuals and corporations.

*Nature of the Company. According to Capt. Hubbard this company was formed as an organization for the marketing of radium. He says that his negotiations with Eldorado are known to you. Capt. Hubbard says that he is the President, and his wife Mrs. R. Hubbard is the vice-president of the Company. He gave us no further details, but my impression is that the Company is entirely a family affair. Capt. Hubbard states that this company is registered in Canada, and has no connection with another organization of the same name in the United States.

He sold the mill recently retaining control only of the small office building and the shed mentioned above. The office building contains Capt. Hubbard's private office, an outer typist's office, and a kitchen and washroom. I gather that the office is used to carry on the activities of the various companies which Capt. Hubbard either controls or represents. The only staff that I saw in the office were Mrs. R. Hubbard and a girl typist.

"Scientific Equipment Belonging to the Company. The Radium Chemical Co. being a marketing organization carries on no scientific activities in the course of its commercial operations. However, Capt. Hubbard states that for financial reasons the scientific equipment which he maintains for his personal use, and the boat described above are carried on the books of the Company as Company property. Capt. Hubbard showed me a large table model Geiger-Muller Counter and scaling circuit manufactured by the Cyclotron Specialties Co. of Moraga, California, and a cathode ray oscilloscope. These are stored in his office. He also mentioned owning a portable Geiger-Muller counter outfit. He showed me parts of what he stated was a 500,000 volt X-ray machine which is at present stored in the shed adjacent to his office. He says that it is operated from two 250,000 volt transformers in series. The shed contained also an assortment of various electrical meters. Capt. Hubbard said that he has considerable other electronic equipment stored elsewhere awaiting the construction of his island laboratory and that he has an electron microscope on order from R.C.A. Capt. Hubbard stated that he was

The Radium Chemical Co. described below, is registered in Canada, and as far as I can gather, is wholly controlled by Capt. Hubbard. He says that at the moment he is negotiating with the Eldorado Crown Co. to have him appointed as their agent for the sale of radium in Italy and in China where he claims to have excellent business contacts. His efforts in this connection are presumably on record in your office. Capt. Hubbard is also connected with or controls, the Northwest Pacific X-Ray and Radium Co. of Seattle, Washington. RE: CAPTAIN ALFRED MATTHEW HUBBARD

MARTINDALE-HUBBARD Law Directory for 1947 reflects that ROBERT W. LYONS is in general law practice at 1100 Bowen Building, Washington, D. C. and handles, corporation, insurance and tax law and departmental matters. It reflected that he was born July 5, 1895 at Bloomingdale, Indiana, was admitted to the bar in Indiana in 1923 and in Washington in 1933. He attended Earlham College and received his legal education at the University of Chicago Law School in 1915. He received his LL.B. degree from the Indiana Law School. He is a member of the Delta Theta Phi Fraternity, the Indiana State Bar Association and the American Bar Association. [REDACTED] b7C

On April 29, 1948, [REDACTED] advised that Mr. LYONS was known to [REDACTED] who has been in law practice in the District of Columbia for many years, as a lawyer who enjoys an excellent reputation. [REDACTED] was not closely acquainted with Mr. LYONS.

On April 30, 1948, [REDACTED] in Washington, advised that he had consulted [REDACTED] concerning Mr. LYONS. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Mr. LYONS' office is also located, gave Mr. LYONS the highest possible legal recommendation. He described Mr. LYONS as having an outstanding legal practice catering primarily to administrative law. [REDACTED] that there was absolutely no question concerning Mr. LYONS' loyalty, patriotism and good citizenship. He said that Mr. LYONS has a very successful law practice and probably does work for various foreign interests. [REDACTED] the opinion that Mr. LYONS could be discreetly consulted by the FBI concerning any matter whatsoever.

The files of this office contain an article entitled "Klansmen Crusade for DEMOCRACY", by Virginia Gardner, which appeared in the October 31, 1944, issue of the "New Masses", a known Communist publication. This article attempted to prove that the Ku Klux Klan was throwing its support to Mr. DENNEY. The article stated that ROBERT W. LYONS of Indianapolis and Washington, D. C. was a millionaire tax lobbyist for J. C. Penny and other chain stores and had resigned as Republican National Committeeman when it was revealed that in the 20's he had been State Treasurer of the Klan. The article alleged that Mr. LYONS was still the boss of the GOP in Indiana. The author of the article claimed that in an interview with LYONS he had given her information which led her to believe that Mr. LYONS had been an advisor to Governor DENNEY.

It is believed that it would be inadvisable to attempt to ascertain the extent and nature of the business dealings between Mr. LYONS and Captain ALFRED HUBBARD without directly consulting Mr. LYONS.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS
Reverend WILLIAM SMITH, presently at St. LEO's CHURCH in Tacoma, Washington, admitted being victimized by the subject back in 1919 when the subject presented to him for examination a very crude mechanical apparatus which he claimed would produce electrical energy through the medium of what he called "atmospheric power generator." Father SMITH stated that the subject was an obvious fraud and that his claimed invention was actually a claim toward a perpetual motion machine. Father SMITH was impressed that HUBBARD was actually a hooey who seeking some wealthy banker to endow him with cash for further research on a fraudulent mechanical device. Father SMITH has no information regarding HUBBARD subsequent to 1919. Seattle Post Intelligencer newspaper under date of 3/8/36 narrates HUBBARD's activities in large liquor smuggling gang and characterized HUBBARD as protégé of ring leader of the gang as well as a some time Federal Prohibition Agent. All efforts were unsuccessful to locate the Northwest Pacific K-Ray and Radio Company or any company of similar name in or around Seattle or state of Washington.

whose name he did not recall came to him at the college requesting him to examine an invention of ALFRED HUBBARD which the unknown man suspected would be a definite contribution to the scientific world.

Father SMITH readily consented to examine the apparatus and described it to the writer as a very crude mechanical contrivance consisting of a series of concentric coils which were fused from magnetized bars and with wires attached to a certain metal, all of which physical and chemical action was supposed to have produced an electrical current or an electrical energy.

Father SMITH stated that at the time he made a very cursory examination of the invention, and he now states he should have realized instantaneously that the whole contrivance was fraudulent and that this entire incidence was a "flim flam." However, Father SMITH admitted that he was actually victimized at the time and when interviewed by newspaper reporters of the Seattle Post Intelligencer did actually give this boy some minor tribute or praise that the machine which he had produced was at least very interesting and contained certain possibilities.

Shortly after this time, HUBBARD's machine was apparently presented to a man by the name of [redacted] who, according to Father SMITH, immediately got in touch with Father SMITH advising him that the entire apparatus was a fraud and that the alleged inventor, HUBBARD, was nothing but a fraud, since whatever current or energy was produced by this machine was not through the combination or any chemical or physical synthesis but rather from a concealed dry cell storage battery concealed in the machine. b7C

According to Father SMITH, HUBBARD at the time of his so called invention was a youth of about 19 years of age who apparently had no formal academic training and was, according to Father SMITH, actually possessed no apparent inclination or aptitude towards any scientific research. He appeared to Father SMITH as one possessing no commercial talents and as a matter of fact Father SMITH claims to have considered him below the average mental capacity for his age, and now recalls that he was quite amazed at the time that such a person so ill-fitted for any work involving ingenuity and a measure of mental resourcefulness could have been able to produce a machine involving the scientific claims and achievements supposedly comprised in this invention.

Father SMITH stated that a few years subsequent to the period above mentioned he either heard or read in the newspapers that HUBBARD had been arrested on some charge, the exact nature of which he could not recall.

SE 62-929

He stated, however, that he had never been any active participant or any party in interest in any suit or trial or action which ever could have resulted in HUBBARD's being convicted of any criminal charge, and that the only recollection he has of HUBBARD being involved was from some account he read in the newspapers.

Father SMITH could give no further information regarding the activities of HUBBARD and has not heard of him or about him for many years. He stated that he had never heard of any company using the name of the Northwest Pacific X-Ray and Radio Company.

Father SMITH further remembered that he had never been called in as any referee, arbitrator or conciliator in any dispute of a scientific nature involving the claims of HUBBARD as against the challenges of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

AT SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer for the date March 8, 1936, published the following regarding the activities of ALFRED M. HUBBARD:

"ALFRED M. HUBBARD arrested by Federal Officers as one of key figures in biggest alcohol and liquor smuggling conspiracy since the repeal of prohibition. He had been smuggling liquor in from a large distillery in Mexico using ships disguised as freighters. HUBBARD first gained national fame in 1919 when as a youth of 19 he amazed the scientific world with a small boat which he operated with what he called an atmospheric power generator claiming a small coil drew electricity from the air for motive power. In 1924 he built a radio transmitting station which was used by ROY OLIVESTAD, later convicted as the King of Puget Sound liquor smugglers, to send code messages to run running boats. Subsequently it was revealed that HUBBARD was working for the Government as a Federal Prohibition Agent gathering evidence against OLIVESTAD."

From the files of the Seattle Credit Bureau in Seattle, Washington, information was obtained to the effect that HUBBARD was sued for divorce in September, 1926, by his wife, MAY ROSE HUBBARD. Further information showed that many suits, most of them for money owed, had been brought by various commercial houses against HUBBARD between 1923 and 1926. The subject had a very poor credit record.

ALFRED M. HUBBARD was listed as an inventor and also as an electrical engineer who was formerly Vice President of the American Radio

SE 62-923

Telephone Company and was characterized in the records of the Credit Bureau as an inventor and a protégé of ROY OLIMSTAD.

In October, 1924, HUBBARD sold a sea plane which had a mortgage on it and at the time of the sale he had represented the plane to be free and clear of all incumbrances. In consequence of this sale, a Grand Larceny Warrant was issued; however, this warrant was never served on HUBBARD.

In November, 1924, HUBBARD, as a party defendant with ROY OLIMSTAD, was sued by the Northwest Radio Company, but, however, no record of disposition could be located.

In an effort to locate the whereabouts of the Northwest Pacific X-Ray and Radio Company numerous sources of information were contacted but no affirmative constructive results were achieved. Inquiries were made throughout the engineering trade and among many of the X-Ray and General Science Laboratories with negative results.

Listed below are a number of sources contacted for possible information regarding the Northwest Pacific X-Ray and Radio Company.

The Commissioner of Corporations, State of Washington.
The Secretary of State, State of Washington.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This will attest to the fact that I have known Dr. Hubbard for over nine years, and have kept in close association with him over that period of time.

I sought out Dr. Hubbard as a result of becoming interested in the use and application of LSD-25, having been informed that Dr. Hubbard was very knowledgeable in this field. Through the years of working closely with him, it became evident that Dr. Hubbard was probably the most informed and experienced person in this entire field, and has been responsible for developing most of the basic successful procedures that have been used, as well as innovating many new techniques. My evaluation of Dr. Hubbard's position in the field of psychedelic research is based upon my own first hand observation and evaluation.

Since the activation of this Foundation April, 1960, Dr. Hubbard has served as a consultant to the Foundation, for which he was compensated $500.00 a month. He devoted full time to the work of the Foundation, contributing significantly to the methods and procedures employed in carrying out the research and solving many operational problems which made it possible for the work to continue. Major contributions were also in the areas of training staff personnel so that they could function effectively in this work, and pushing forward the frontiers of our understanding and knowledge of the psychedelics and their many applications. Probably more than anyone, Dr. Hubbard is aware of the many possible uses of these materials and the full potentialities that can be developed through proper training and education.

Dr. Hubbard resigned as Director of the Foundation on May 9, 1965, and received his last compensation for the month of April, 1965.

During the time of our association, I found Dr. Hubbard to be a most able investigator, and a most loyal and trustworthy friend, thoroughly dedicated and committed to the principles for which he stands.

ALFRED MATTHEW HUBBARD

A representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation caused a search to be made of the records of the U.S. Department of the Treasury, Office of the Secretary, Office of Personnel, Office of Assistant Director (Security). This office maintains records concerning former employees of the various bureaus of the Department of the Treasury. On January 19, 1977, the representative was advised that the files contained no records concerning Alfred Matthew Hubbard.

On January 19, 1977, two officials of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Department of the Treasury, advised that their Central Index File, which shows criminal files back to the year 1930, showed no reference to Alfred Matthew Hubbard. No record could be located of Hubbard ever having been a Treasury Department employee or having been associated with the department in any way. There was no record indicating Hubbard's possible prison sentence for Conspiracy to Smuggle Liquor. The officials advised that in the 1930's employees were often hired in the district in which they worked. Therefore, there would not necessarily be a record of the employee in Washington, D.C.

On January 18, 1977, an official of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Department of the Treasury, advised that no records were available going back far enough to show whether Hubbard was an employee of the IRS.

On January 15, 1977, an official of the U.S. Secret Service, Department of the Treasury, advised that his records show no reference to Hubbard as ever having been an employee of the Secret Service or of having any association with the Secret Service in any way.

On January 13, 1977, an official of the U.S. Customs Service, Department of the Treasury, advised that his files show no reference to Hubbard either as a former employee or as having been the subject of a criminal investigation.

of information contained in enclosed LHM which was obtained from the files of NPRC-C.

ADMINISTRATIVE

No information was available in the files of NPRC-C which would explain why HUBBARD was removed "with prejudice" from employment with the Bureau of Prohibition. It was noted that his separation was effected approximately 17 months subsequent to the effective date. Apparently he was not performing duty during this period, during which time he may have been suspended pending a decision under disciplinary procedures.

Re WFO airtel to St. Louis dated 1/14/75.

Enclosed herewith are six copies for the Bureau and one copy each to Seattle and WFO of a Letterhead Memo, dated 1/30/75, and captioned as above.

Investigation at EPRC-C, St. Louis, Missouri, was conducted by SC [redacted] On 1/29/75, [redacted] Civilian Reference Branch, EPRC-C, St. Louis, Mo., advised that no objection would be interposed by the National Personnel Records Center [redacted] of information contained in enclosed LHM which was obtained from the files of EPRC-C.

ADMINISTRATIVE

No information was available in the files of EPRC-C which would explain why HUBBARD was removed "with prejudice" from employment with the Bureau of Prohibition. It was noted that his separation was effected approximately 17 months subsequent to the effective date. Apparently he was not performing duty during this period, during which time he may have been suspended pending a decision under disciplinary procedures.
